Standards and Interpretations mandatory for periods starting at 1/1/13 or afterwards

IFRS 9 Financial Instruments (applied for periods starting at 1/1/15 or afterwards)

2.2. Currency translation

α) Operating currency and presentation currency

The financial statements are presented in Euro, which is the operating currency.

b) Transactions and balances

Transactions in foreign currencies are converted into the operating currency at rates applicable at the time of transactions. Exchange rate differences, gains or losses, emerging from the settlement of these transactions, or from the conversion of the balances into operating currency are booked in comprehensive income statement. Exchange rate differences from non-current assets valued at their fair values are considered as part of this fair value and are booked along with the differences in fair value.

2.3. Assets devaluation

i) Non-financial assets

Book values of non-current assets are restated when there are indications that their book value might not be recoverable. Recoverable value is the value that is greater between net sales price and using value. If recoverable value is less than the book value, then the loss is booked in comprehensive income statement. Fair value minus sales expenses is the amount that can be received from selling the asset in a transaction where both parties are equally informed have equal control. Using value is the net present value of the expected future cash inflows expected to be received from using this asset.

The company did not hold any non-financial assets.

ii) Financial assets

The company assesses the fair value of each financial asset at every balance sheet date. Such assets are valued at cost and are presented at net book value.

The recoverable value is determined based on the net present value of the expected future cash inflows. Any losses are presented in the comprehensive income statement.

2.4. Financial assets

Financial assets enter into the following categories based on the purpose for which they were acquired. The management determines the category of such on the initial recognition and restates the classification annually at every balance sheet date.

a) Financial assets valued at their fair value

This category includes financial assets acquired in order to be sold in the short term or they have classified as such from the management. Such assets are classified as current assets held in order to be sold in the coming 12 months.

The company does not hold such investments

b) Receivables and loans

This category includes non derivatives financial assets with fixed or determined payments which are not negotiated in any market and there is no intention to sell them. They are included in current assets except for the ones maturing in more than 12 months, which are included in non-current assets.

Receivables and loans are presented in net book value, based on the method of real interest rate.

c) Investments held until maturity

This category includes non-derivatives financial assets with fixed or determined payments and a specified expiry date, at which the company has the intention and the right to hold them.

The company did not hold such investments.

d) Financial assets available for sale

This category includes non-derivatives financial assets which are either classified in this category or they cannot be classified under any of the above categories. They are included in non-current assets given that the management does not have the intention to sell them within 12 months from the balance sheet date.

The company did not hold such investments.

2.5. Trade receivables

Trade receivables are booked initially at their fair value and later on at their net book value using the method of real interest rate deducting impairment losses. Impairment losses are booked when there is evidence that the company is not in a position to collect the amount receivable under the initial terms. The loss is calculated as the difference between the book value of receivables and the present value of future cash flows discounted with the real interest rate. The loss is book as expense.

2.6 Share capital

Share capital refers to common registered shares of the company. These shares are included in equity.

2.7 Income tax

Income tax is calculated according to the local tax legislation. The income tax expense is calculated on the basis of earnings reformed according to local tax legislation and with the effective and legal tax rate applied.

2.8 Deferred tax

Deferred tax asset is determined with the method of liability in the differences between the tax base and the accounting base of the assets and liabilities. No deferred tax is booked if it comes from the initial recognition of an asset or liability, which did not affect neither the accounting nor the tax result.

Deferred tax assets are booked up to the amount they are expected to produce a future tax profit for using the temporary difference creating the deferred tax asset. Deferred taxes are calculated using the applicable tax rate at the balance sheet date.

2.9 Trade payables

Trade payables are booked initially at the fair value and they are later valued according to the unamortized cost method using the real interest rate.

2.10 Provisions

Provisions are booked in the event that a legal or other commitment currently exists, based from past events, for which commitment it is probable that resources will be required and the amount of these resources can be measured. They are booked at the best estimate regarding the cost that will arise in order to settle the commitment.

2.11 Leasing

A leasing contract that transfers all risks and benefits associated with using an asset is determined to be a financial leasing, therefore the asset is considered to be acquired via debt.

The company has no contracts as of 31.12.2016.

3. Management of risk

FLUIDRA HELLAS SA despite the fact that is a subsidiary of Fluidra Group of Companies has all the functions of a separate legal entity. The company sells the merchandise of the Group, produced throughout the world, mainly to the Greek market.

Given the current crisis, the main risk is the credit risk. In order to control the exposure to the risk, the company as of the beginning of 2012 has set in place a strict credit policy, which has the following main features:

Thorough control of the financials of new and current customers, reassessing credit terms where necessary

Decreasing credit days

Requesting collateral from the customers in order to grant credit

4. Accounting estimations and management judgments

Accounting estimations and management judgments are constantly reassessed and are based on historical facts and expectations for future events assumed to be rational.

5. Tangible non-current assets

Property, plant and equipment is recognised at cost, less accumulated depreciation and any impairment losses. The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment comprises the purchase price, less any trade discounts and rebates, plus any costs directly attributable to bringing the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by the directors, and where applicable, the initial estimate of the costs of dismantling and removing the item and restoring the site on which it is located, the obligation for which an entity incurs as a consequence of having used the item for purposes other than to produce inventories. The same principles apply in the case an asset is acquired via financial leasing.

Depreciation of items of property, plant and equipment is calculated using the straight-line basis to allocate their cost or deemed cost to their residual values over their estimated useful lives. Each component of an item of property, plant and equipment with a cost that is significant in relation to the total cost of the item is depreciated separately.

Land is not depreciated. The estimated useful lives of other items of property, plant and equipment are as follows:

Type of asset	Estimated useful life (years)
Buildings	33
Plant and machinery	3-10
Other installations, equipment and furniture	3-10
Information technology equipment	2-5
Motor vehicles	3-8
Other assets	4-10

The Group reassesses the residual value, periods and depreciation method at least at the end of each financial year. Changes to the initially established criteria are recognised as a change in estimations.

6. Intangible non-current assets

Intangible non-current assets are amortized using the straight line method. FLUIDRA HELLAS SA has software which is estimated to have a useful life of 3-5 years.

7. Long term leasing contracts

The Company has the right to use certain assets through lease contracts. Leases in terms of which the Group assumes substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership are classified as finance leases, otherwise they are classified as operating leases.

At the commencement of the lease term the Group recognises finance leases as assets and liabilities at amounts equal to the fair value of the leased property or, if lower, the present value of the minimum lease payments. Initial direct costs are included as an increase in the value of the leased asset. Minimum lease payments are apportioned between the finance charge and the reduction of the outstanding liability. Financial expenses are registered in the consolidated profit and loss account using the effective interest rate method. Contingent rents are recognised as expenses in the periods in which they are incurred.

Lease payments under an operating lease, net of any incentives received, are recognised as an expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term unless another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern of the user's benefit. Contingent rents are recognised as expenses in the periods in which they are incurred.

8. Fair value

Fair value is the amount for which an asset could be exchanged, or a liability settled, between knowledgeable, willing parties in an arm's length transaction.

9. Inventory

Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realisable value. The cost of inventories comprises all costs of purchase, costs of conversion and other costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. The costs of conversion of inventories include costs directly related to the units of production and a systematic allocation of fixed and variable production overheads that are incurred in the conversion process. The allocation of fixed production overheads is based on the higher of normal capacity of the production facilities or the actual level of production. The cost of raw materials and other supplies, the cost of merchandise and costs of conversion are assigned to the different inventory units based on the weighted average price method. The company uses the same cost formula for all inventories of the same nature and similar use. Volume discounts extended by suppliers are recognised when it is probable that the discount conditions, such as a reduction in the cost of the inventories, will be met. Purchase discounts for prompt payment are recognised as a reduction in the cost of the inventories acquired.

The cost of inventories is subject to adjustments against profit or loss in cases where cost exceeds net realisable value. For this purpose, net realisable value is as follows:

- Raw materials and other supplies at replacement cost. Nevertheless, the Group does not make any adjustment in those cases where it is expected that the finished goods, which include raw materials and other supplies, will be sold at or above cost of production.
- Goods for resale and finished goods: at estimated selling cost, less costs to sell;
- Work in progress: at estimated selling price of related finished goods, less the estimated costs of completion and the estimated costs necessary to make the sale;

10. Cash and cash equivalent

Cash and cash equivalents include cash on hand and demand deposits in credit entities. They also include other short-term, highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and which have a short maturity of three months or less from the date of acquisition.

The Group classifies cash flows relating to interest received and paid as operating activities, except for interest collected relating to loans received for reasons other than the normal activity of the Group. Dividends received from associates are classified as investment activities and dividends paid by the Company are recognised as financing activities.

11. Employee benefits

Long term benefits

Retirement premium obligations are booked as provision only when it is certain that it will be paid in the coming year.

Short term benefits

Obligations to employees for bonuses are booked only if there is enough evidence stating that the provision must take place.

12. Provisions

The company recognizes provisions when it has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event; it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. The amounts recognized as a provision are the best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the present obligation at the consolidated reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties related with the provision and, where significant, the financial effect of the discount, provided that the expenditures required in each period can be reliably measured. Provisions are determined by discounting the expected future cash flows at a pre-tax rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and, where appropriate, the risks specific to the liability. The financial effect of provisions is recognized under finance expenses in the consolidated income statement. If it is no longer probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation, the provision is reversed against the income statement item where the corresponding expense was recognized, and any excess is recognized as other income.

13. Revenue recognition

Revenue is recognised at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable for the sale of assets or services. Volume rebates or other types of trade discounts for prompt payment are recognised as a reduction in revenues if considered probable at the date of recognition of revenue.

i) Sale of goods

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised when the Group:

- Has transferred to the buyer the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods;
- Retains neither continuing managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership nor effective control over the goods sold;
- The amount of revenue and the costs incurred or to be incurred in respect of the transaction can be measured reliably;
- It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the Group; and
- The incurred costs or to be incurred related with the transaction could be reasonably measured.

The Group sells certain goods which can be returned by the purchasers. In these cases, the sale of goods is recognised when the above terms are complied with and it is possible to make a reliable estimate of returns based on previous experience and other relevant factors. Estimated returns are recognised under revenues and charged to the provision for sales returns, recognising the estimated cost value relating to the goods returned, net of the effect of any impairment, as inventory on deposit.

ii) Services rendered

Revenues associated with the rendering of service transactions are recognised by reference to the stage of completion at the reporting date when the outcome of the transaction can be estimated reliably.

14. Income tax

Tax expense or tax income on profit for the period comprises both current and deferred tax. Current tax is the amount of income taxes payable or recoverable in respect of the consolidated taxable profit or tax loss for a period. Current tax assets or liabilities are measured at the amount expected to be paid or recovered from the taxation authorities, using the tax rates and tax laws that have been enacted or substantially enacted by the closing date. Deferred tax liabilities are the amounts of income taxes payable in future periods in respect of taxable temporary differences, whereas deferred tax assets are the amounts of income taxes recoverable in future periods in respect of deductible temporary differences, the carryforward of unused tax losses, and unused tax credits. Temporary differences are differences between the carrying amount of an asset or liability in the balance sheet and its tax base. Current and deferred tax is recognised as income or an expense, except to the extent that the tax arises from a transaction or event which is recognised, in the same or a different year, directly in consolidated equity or from a business combination. Income tax deductions granted by public entities as a reduction in this tax are recognised as a lower income tax expenses when there exists reasonable assurance that the terms associated with the entitlement to deduction are met.

The company is not tax audited for the year 2010, therefore the tax liabilities for that year are not definite.

For the year 2016 the company is under tax audit from auditors according to article 82 par 5 L 2238/1994. This tax audit is in progress and the respective tax certificate is expected to be issued after the publication of the financial statements for the year 2016. If tax differences arise, we do not expect to have any impact on the financial statements.

15. Offsetting assets and liabilities, income and expenses

Liabilities cannot be offset by assets, nor expenses by income, unless permitted by a relevant standard or interpretation.

16. Classification of assets and liabilities as current and non-current

The company presents the consolidated statement of financial position classifying assets and liabilities as current and non-current. For this purpose assets and liabilities are classified as current when they satisfy the following criteria:

- Assets are classified as current where they are expected to be realised in, or are intended for sale or consumption in the company's normal operating cycle, within twelve months after the reporting date or when they are held primarily for the purpose of being traded. Cash and cash equivalents are also classified as current, unless they are restricted from being exchanged or used to settle a liability for at least twelve months after the reporting date.
- Liabilities are classified as current when they are expected to be settled in the company's normal operating cycle, are held primarily for the purpose of being traded, are due to be settled within twelve months after the reporting date or where the company does not have an unconditional right to defer settlement of the liability for at least twelve months after the reporting date.
- The company classifies financial liabilities as current when they are due to be settled within twelve months after the reporting date, even if the original term was for a period longer than twelve months and an agreement to refinance or to reschedule payments, on a long-term basis is completed after the reporting date and before the consolidated annual accounts are authorised.
- Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognised in the consolidated statement of financial position under non-current assets or liabilities, irrespective of the expected date of realisation or settlement.
